

STORMS, WAR AND SHIPWRECK:
TREASURES FROM THE SICILIAN SEAS
LECTURE AND VISIT TO EXHIBITION AT THE ASHMOLEAN MUSEUM, OXFORD

Saturday 2nd July 2016

Event organised by Grahame Soffe and Kate Adcock

£25 per person
(including entry to the lecture, the exhibition and tea and coffee)

The seas around Sicily have yielded treasures from ships of all periods which have foundered in its waters. Many of these wrecks have over the past sixty years been subject to archaeological investigation. This major international exhibition draws on underwater archaeology to bring a unique and innovative perspective on the history of Sicily, as reported in the current issue of ARA News.

ARA members will gather for tea and coffee in the new Ashmolean lecture theatre at 1:30. There, at 2:00 they will attend an exclusive illustrated lecture by Dr Paul Roberts, Sackler Keeper of Antiquities at the Ashmolean Museum, previously of the British Museum, where his exhibition on 'Life and Death in Pompeii and Herculaneum' was met with great acclaim, and/or his co-curator, Dr Alexandra Sofroniew, who has written a revealing behind-the-scenes article about the exhibition for the current ARA News. Members will then gain entry to the exhibition.
